DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is in response to Applicant's amendment, filed on 2/27/2004.

2. Claims 1-19 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103 (a)

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) as being unpatentable by Clark et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 5,710,889) in view of Jia et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 5,991,402).

As per claims 1, 5-7, 9, 10, 12-14, and 16-19 Clark substantially discloses an electronic delivery system that delivering services directly to a customer facility at any time requested by the customer. The customer connects to the system whenever desired to access each of the services, and the interface device stores and routes messages between the customers and each of the service providers at the respective times when the customers' facilities and the service providers' facilities are operative (which is readable as Applicant's claimed invention system for delivering institutional data to a customer), comprising:

an institutional server, wherein the institutional server includes a system for separately serving a first database containing private and a second database (see., fig 1, abstract, col 3, lines 18-35, repository and archive facility);

a client, wherein the client includes a system for displaying a merged version of the private and public data (or security) from the institutional server (see., figs 15, 17, 20, 23, 24, 28, col 6, lines 37-47, col 14, lines 10-22, col 21, lines 16-25). It is to be noted that Clark fails to explicitly disclose an encrypted version of the private data and an unencrypted version of the public data. However, Jia discloses a method/system that enables software-on-demand and software subscription services based on a dynamic transformation filter. An encrypted material installed on the computer is encrypted by decrypting a first version of the material to produce an unencrypted version (see., abstract, col 5, lines 55-67, col 6, lines 1-67, col 7, lines 1-26, col 10, lines 8-13). Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the global financial service of Clark by including the limitation detailed above as taught by Jia because such modification would shield direct access to the financial services.

As per claim 2, Jia discloses the claimed limitations wherein the client includes a mechanism for decrypting the encrypted private data (see., abstract, col 5, lines 55-67, col 6, lines 1-67, col 7, lines 1-26).

As per claim 3, Jia discloses the claimed limitations wherein said making the customer anonymous to the service provider (see., abstract, fig 1, item 108).

As per claim 4, Jia discloses the claimed limitations wherein the system for making the customer anonymous to the service provider includes a mechanism for determining a service level available to the customer (see., abstract, col 3, lines 20-44).

As per claims 8, 11, and 15 Jia discloses the claimed limitations wherein the encrypted version of the private data is encrypted using a public key infrastructure protocol (see., col 6, lines 64-67, col 7, lines 1-18).

RESPONSE TO ARGUMENTS

5. Applicant's arguments filed on 2/27/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

REMARKS

6. In response to Applicant's arguments, Applicant argues that the prior art of record (Clark and Jia) fail to disclose:

a. " to establish a prima facie case of obviousness, three basic criteria must be met. First, there must be some suggestion or motivation, either in the reference. Second, there must be a reasonable expectation of success. Finally, the prior art reference must teach or suggest all the claim limitations".

The Examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071,5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992).

The rationale to modify or combine the prior art does not have to be expressly stated in the prior art; the rationale may be expressly or impliedly contained in the prior art or it may be reasoned from knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art, established scientific principles, or legal precedent established by prior case law. In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988); In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). See also In re Eli Lilli & Co., 902 F.2d 943, 14 USPQ2d 1741 (Fed. Cir. 1990) (discussion of reliance on legal precedent); In re Nilssen, 851 F.2d 1401, 7USPQ2d 1500 (Fed. Cir. 1988) (references do not have to explicitly suggest combining teachings); Ex parte Clapp, 227 USPQ 972 (Bd. Pat. App & Inter); and Es parte Levengood, 28 USPQ2d 1300 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1993) (reliance on logic and sound scientific reasoning).

Also in reference to Ex parte Levengood, 28 USPQ2d, 1301, the court stated that "Obviousness is a legal conclusion, the determination of which is a question of patent law.

Motivation for combining the teachings of the various references need not to explicitly found in the reference themselves, In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981). Indeed, the Examiner may provide an explanation based on logic and sound scientific reasoning that will support a holding of obviousness. In re Soli, 317 F.2d 941 137 USPQ 797 (CCPA 1963)."

b. " missing portions of the Examiner's arguments at the middle of page 3, specifically "containing". However, the word containing has been removed see above.

c. Applicant also argues that the Examiner has failed to address the claimed "service provider". As indicated above, Jia discloses a service provider 108 for encrypting software materials see., Jia, col 5, lines 1-47.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
